As a developer, I am at the beginning of my career and have not yet had the opportunity to gain work experience. However, I am highly motivated to learn and grow in this field. Although I lack previous experience, I am excited to take on new challenges and demonstrate what I can contribute to both the team and the environment. I am deeply committed to learning and continuously improving, leveraging my technical skills and dedication to make valuable contributions to future projects.

This is where I completed my secondary education, graduating with a diploma in Administrative and Accounting Studies..

This is where I am currently in my second year of the University Technician Program in Software Development.
